This is what happens in Acts 2.

There was a sound born out of a mighty wind. It filled the house where they were. The wind of God is blowing and a purging is taking place.

The baptism Jesus brings is a purging experience, separating the wheat from the chaff. John is talking about when the wind of God touches your life. There are somethings that will leave your life and you're not going to get it back.

It's just a part of harvest, removing the chaff is for making sure the wheat pure making it usable.

Wheat cannot get rid of the chaff on its own. It cannot get itself to the place for it to be removed on its own.

You will be submerged in the wind, it's going to be an act of God.

Those who are born of the Spirit, you see the effects of the wind you hear its sound, but don't know where its going and from where it comes, but there are those who are moved by My Spirit.

Acts 2:1-4 God gave birth to a Spirit-filled community. Relating to God has changed He's not afar off He's moved in.

God are there still times I need the wind to blow in my life and remove those things that are keeping me from growing into what you created me to be and do?

Be being filled with the Holy Spirit, we should be continually being moved by the wind of the Spirit and I am safe when it's over.

When God pours out His Spirit all bets are off, and its not always gentle or pleasant.
